Preface to the 1st Edition

Our school has a vision to promote English learning. Apart from maintaining the use of English as the medium of instruction (EMI) in most of the subjects, we have been creating an English-rich environment which is conducive to English learning. For instance, the daily Morning Assembly, various hall functions and special activities like Speech Day and Sports Day are conducted in English. English is also used in students-as-target publications and written materials to be posted. Furthermore, students are encouraged to talk to staff in English outside class time. All these measures maximize students’ exposure to the second language.

We understand that newly promoted S1 students have difficulty in learning a second language as most of them are from Chinese-medium primary schools where English is taught only as a subject. To bridge the language gap, the English panel organizes the English Bridging Programme in the summer vacation while the EMI subjects provide subject-based English bridging programmes in the first few weeks of the school year. The English panel also provides language support for students through the teaching of cross-curriculum classroom language, language skills and vocabulary management skills.

Throughout the years, we have made every effort to facilitate the teaching of EMI subjects through policy making and the provision of training programmes. To further facilitate teachers to teach in a second language, the EMI Group compiled an EMI Teachers’ Handbook in 1998. Since then, we have made several revisions. In 2006, we produced a series of languages notes to let students learn English in a more authentic way. At the end of the school year 2006/07, we compiled the “Campus English” by merging the content of the EMI Teachers’ Handbook and the language notes for students. We hope that this handbook may offer language support to students, teachers and supporting staff in our school campus.

Finally, I would like to express my gratitude to different committees that provide the materials for the “Campus English”. I also thank the language officers (Ms. Wong May Sum, Ms. Yip Yee May and Ms Gaughan Tara Jean) for the dedicated efforts in editing this handbook. May God reward those who contribute to the school development.

Mr. Leung Wing Tak
Deputy Prefect of Studies
26/7/2007
Preface to the 3rd Edition

Campus English has been incorporated into the Secondary 1 English curriculum since its publication in August 2007 to provide language support for students with the transition from mostly Chinese-medium primary school education to English-medium secondary education. To keep abreast with the changes in the school language policies, the transition to a new senior secondary curriculum and changes with the move to the new school premises in the coming September 2011, we envisage the need to revise the Campus English and have the revision completed in July 2011 with the contribution of the English Department.

I would like to thank our English teacher, Ms. Kwong Ka Yan, with her dedicated effort in revising this booklet while she was busying over the marking of the students’ exam scripts. We would also remember Ms. Tsang Choi Har’s pioneering effort in preparing the prototype of the Campus English well before its first publication. Finally, we thank God for granting us a new school premises with opportunities opened up for school development. Also on that site we will celebrate the 25th Anniversary of our school to witness God’s grace bestowed to us.

Mr. Leung Wing Tak
Vice-principal
6/7/2011
1. SCHOOL LANGUAGE POLICY

1. Medium of Instruction

   - English is the medium of instruction (MOI) of our school. This policy applies to S1-3 and some senior classes.
   - Teachers should solely use English as the medium of instruction except for Chinese, Putonghua and Chinese History subjects and subjects (CE and Liberal Studies) with a sanction for non-compliance.
   - English should be used throughout teaching, group discussion, questioning and answering and exhortation for EMI subjects.
   - Assignments in whatever forms should be completed in English for EMI subjects.
   - Teachers should firmly guide students to speak English in EMI lessons. Appropriate punishment can be exercised by teachers according to their professional judgement for non-compliance.
   - As supplementary lessons outside class time are part of the formal curriculum, English should be used as the MOI.
   - Teachers may use Chinese as the MOI for enhancement or remedial classes except for English subject.

2. Classroom Language and English Bridging Programmes

   - Teachers of S1 EMI subjects should use the set of language-across-curriculum classroom language edited by the Teaching and Learning Team. The set of classroom language will be revised annually depending on the needs of teachers.
   - Formal assessment of the students on classroom language should be included.
   - English Bridging Programmes will be organized by S1 EMI subjects including English subject.

3. Language Environment

   3.1 Sharing in morning assembly
   - Committees are encouraged to use English for sharing.
   - Sharing related to a certain subject and promotion of related academic activities should be conducted in the same medium as the MOI of the subject taught.
   - There is a time slot scheduled in each week for sharing in English.

   3.2 Announcements
   Announcements through the Public Address System (PA) should be conducted in English except for Chinese, Putonghua and subjects with essentially Chinese element like Chinese History.
3.3 Notices to parents

Notices to parents should be written in both Chinese and English.

3.4 Hall functions and special activities

The following hall functions and special activities will be conducted in English:
- The Commencement and the End-of-term Ceremonies, Prize-giving Ceremony, Prize-giving Day and Inauguration of Student Leaders.
- Speech Day, Sports Day and School Picnic
(If announcements or reminders are given in the Hall Assembly periods, such practices should be conducted in English except for Chinese, Putonghua and subjects with essentially Chinese element like Chinese History.)

3.5 Activity leaflets, posters, notices, directory boards or students-as-target publications

- Activity leaflets, posters and notices should be written in English except for Chinese and Putonghua and subjects with essentially Chinese element like Chinese History. Written sharing to be posted can be Chinese or English.
- Directory boards: written in both English and Chinese
- Students-as-target publications: for publications produced by subjects, the medium of publication should follow the medium used; while for publications produced by committees and school societies/clubs, there is no restriction on the language used for the unit concerned.
- Messages to Shatin Tsung-Tsiners: Teachers are encouraged to write in English. About 30% will be written in English.

3.6 English used outside class time

- Teachers are encouraged to talk with students in English outside class time.
- Students should speak English when they ask to see the staff at the entrance of offices (General Office, Staff Room, Preparation Room, TRR, Library, etc.). Teachers should also respond to students in English.

3.7 Afternoon Reading Scheme

- S1-2: English reading in the first term
- S3: English or Chinese newspaper reading
- S4-6: English newspaper reading in the first term

3.8 Supportive role of English Panel

- English panel should provide language support to other subjects through, the teaching of classroom language, language skills & vocabulary management skills to S1 students and training of student announcers.
- English panel is requested to organize various English activities to create a language-rich environment.

II. TEACHING CONTENT SUBJECTS WITH ENGLISH AS THE MOI

1. Role of EMI subject teachers

EMI subject teachers should focus on content rather than language teaching (though the weighting of content elements should be reduced in the first few months of the S1 Bridging Programmes). The formal aspect of language should be dealt with by language teachers. However, in order to enhance the language proficiency of students, EMI teachers have the responsibility to keep using English throughout the lessons.

2. Advice on teaching with EMI

With the adoption of EMI, Cantonese will be banned from the classrooms. As a result, there will be a huge difference in terms of teachers’ behaviour and teaching style. Below are some hints summarised from the workshop course book written by Mr. P.L. Li (1998):

(a) Modifying materials and tasks
Careful selection and adaptation of course materials and tasks (including assignment) at a language level comprehensible by students.

(b) Planning stages of lessons
- Identify key words, phrases and terms and define vocabulary if necessary
- Select and list ideal visual aids for language support
- Check your sentence construction. The subject-verb-object pattern is fine for most sentences. Make relative clauses into separate sentences.
- Different subjects may use certain text types (e.g. cause & effect, comparison & contrast, pros & cons, chronology, description, process, definition, etc.) more frequently than others. Teachers should organize their teaching plan to have these text types taught explicitly.
- Use of:
  - sequence markers (first, second, next, finally)
  - transition words (because, so, although)
  - terms of priority (least, likely, most important)

(c) Adjusting teacher talk
Teachers should employ
- simple words and frequent words
- simple sentence structure
- clear articulation
- slow articulation
(d) Language support to students to enhance understanding

Teachers may consider the following language support to students:

- Dictionaries: request students to consult dictionaries
- Glossary/vocabulary: listing of a glossary for each topic to enhance memorization of new words; help students develop the habit of vocabulary management
- Visual media: use of different visual media like pictures, diagrams, flowcharts, tables, realia and projection media to enhance understanding
- Body language: use of gesture to enhance understanding

3. Frequently asked questions

(a) Should EMI subject teachers correct students’ language mistakes?

As mentioned before, EMI subject teachers should focus on content rather than language. Therefore, content-based subject teachers do not need to correct students’ language mistakes as long as the students can communicate the content effectively. If teachers do want to correct students’ language mistakes, do not give value judgments as this may embarrass the students.

(b) Should Chinese be totally banned in normal lessons?

The answer is “YES”. However, teachers may give Chinese translations of new words (the first time they appear in lessons) verbally or in written form if necessary. Explanation of concepts in Chinese should be avoided.

(c) Can I use Chinese-medium materials (ETV, reading materials, tapes) for teaching EMI subjects?

The answer is “YES” provided that the English equivalent of teaching materials is not available. But English has to be used in both classroom talk and written assignments.

(d) Will EMI be extended from S1 to S6?

Currently, EMI covers S1-3 and some senior classes. The extension of EMI to higher forms will be subject to evaluation.
III. CLASSROOM LANGUAGE

Our school is an EMI school. That means in most of the lessons, teachers use English in their teaching. Here are some common situations in which teachers will use English in the lessons.

X. TRAINING OF STUDENT ANNOUNCERS

1. Tasks of teacher adviser (briefing note)

Regarding what to do as an adviser to student announcer …

Please remember to

• have as much practice with the student announcers as you consider necessary.
• try your best to make sure their pronunciations are correct and give appropriate advice but rest assured that the mistakes they make in making announcement do not indicate any negligence or fault on the teachers’ part.
• sign at the space for supervisor’s signature.

You need not

• photocopy the announcement scripts for students but may do so if you want.
• post the announcement sheets on the notice board.

Please do not

• take the clipboard away

Thank you very much for your help.
2. Tasks of Student Announcer (briefing note)

Your duty:

To make announcement(s) in morning assemblies at the playground. Most announcements will be in English. If it rains, you will use the public address system installed in the A.V. Control Room under Mr./Ms ______’s supervision.

What you have to do before making announcement(s):

(1) Take the announcement sheets placed in the tray for announcement sheets from the reception counter after 4:00pm when you are on duty the next day. (See roster for announcement)

(2) Read the announcement(s) once to your teacher adviser to make sure your pronunciations are correct. If your adviser is not available, consult another teacher belonging to the same team or any other English teachers available if you cannot find him/her.

(3) Practise reading out the announcement(s) so that you will be familiar with the content and can speak fluently.

(4) After practising, replace the announcement sheets clipped on the announcement board in the tray. Remember not to take them away.

(5) After making the announcement(s) for the day, return the announcement sheets (clipped on the board) to the reception counter.

When making announcements:

(1) Use the standardized statements/phrases provided.

(2) Make English announcement(s) first, followed by Chinese announcement(s).

(3) Speak clearly and a little slowly. Put yourself in the position of your fellow schoolmates.

(4) Make a suitable pause after making an announcement.

And finally …

Look upon this duty as a good learning opportunity to improve your spoken English, your confidence and organizational power. If you have any question or comment, please feel free to contact Mr./Ms. ______ in the Staff Room.
3. Standardized Statements for Making Daily Announcements

(1) Address

“Good morning everybody. Please pay attention to the following announcement(s)”

(2) Body of Announcement

“There is/are _____ (no.) announcement(s) today.”

“First, the announcement is from the ________ (unit).
……………………………………. ….   (content)
Second, the announcement is from the ________ (unit)
……………………………………. ….   (content)
Third, the announcement is from the ________ (unit)
……………………………………. ….   (content)
Finally, the announcement is from the ________ (unit)
……………………………………. ….   (content)”

[Before making Chinese announcement, read the following words: “The following announcement(s) is/are in Chinese.”]

(3) Ending

“If you have any questions about the announcement(s), you may refer to the announcement sheet(s) on the notice board on the ground floor.

Thank you for your attention.”

[Now, let’s hand over to _____ (name of person).]

For Morning Assembly:
“You may now go to your classrooms.”

For students staying in classrooms:
“Would all class teachers, please check the body temperature records of your students. For those who cannot show the body temperature records, please line up outside the General Office. You may now have your form teacher period.”
